

Hello!

Firstly, thanks for holding onto your 2020 ticket for Anjunadeep's Open Air Evolved event at Magazine. It means the world to our partners and to everyone at the label.

Unfortunately, due to ongoing pandemic issues, we've decided not to proceed with the show we had planned at Magazine on July 25 of this year. However, we're excited to announce that instead we've secured a new, entirely outdoor venue for Sunday, August 15. The event will be similar to previous Open Air events: one stage, big production and a lineup of your favourite Anjunadeep stars, no timetable clashes!

However, due to the uncertainty around global travel, we unfortunately won't be able to bring you the lineup we previously announced for Magazine. That said, we think you'll love what we've pulled together. Expect a full announcement for the new date in the coming weeks. We're finalising details now, and will be able to bring you a more detailed announcement next week.

Here are your options.

Option One

Transfer your ticket to Anjunadeep Open Air at The Drumsheds on Sunday August 15th at no extra charge. This requires no action on your part, your ticket will be automatically transferred.

Option Two

If you're unable to attend the new show you also have the option to claim a full refund, including booking fee. For those who purchased tickets from the Kaboodle please apply for your refund HERE. For those who purchased tickets from other providers please contact them directly for your refund. The deadline for refunds is Wednesday, March 24 at 6pm GMT.

Above & Beyond will also be announcing that Group Therapy 450 will be taking place at The Drumsheds on Saturday, August 14 to complete the weekend. As a way to say thank you for holding on to your previous Magazine ticket, we are giving you the opportunity to purchase a ticket for ABGT450, at pre-sale price, right now.
